O'DEMPSEY.

The O'Dempseys are of the same stock as the O'Connors of Offaly and were a powerful sept in the territory lying on the borders of Leix and Offaly known as Clannalier. Hence the title Viscount Clannalier bestowed by James I of England on Terence O'Dempsey, the family being then and in the reign of Elizabeth I consistently pro-English. An example of their activity in this respect will be found in the section on O'Lalor (v.p. 206 inira). However, they took the Irish side later on in the seventeenth century: Edmund O'Dempsey, Bishop of Leighlin, Lewis O'Dempsey, Viscount Clannalier, and Barnabas O'Dempsey were prominent members of the Confederation of Kilkenny and, with Lysagh O'Dempsey, were exempted from pardon by the Cromwellian victors in 1652: their loyalty to the Catholic King James II resulted in the loss of their estates. In earlier times, too, they were distinguished in the defence of their country and O'Dempsey, Chief of Offaly, was one of the few Irish leaders who could boast of having defeated Strongbow in a military engagement, which he did in 1172, Strongbow's son-in-law, de Quenci being killed in the battle. Dermot O'Dempsey (d. 1193), Chief of the Name, founded the Cistercian Abbey at Monasterevan. St. Evin, it may be mentioned, who established the church at Monasterevan, a place which bears his name, was the patron saint of the O'Dempseys. The Dempseys, too, were notable among the priests of the penal times one of them John Dempsey, a relative of Viscount Clannalier, being Bishop of Kildare.

"DEMPSEY"

Settlement of UPPER CANADA by Dr. Canniff. 1869. pp 646-647.

Adolphustown, August 9, 1836.

T.D.

Mark DEMPSEY was sent out by the British Government as a Secretary to General Schuyler. Married about 1746 to Rice Carroll. Thomas, their youngest son, was born in New Jersey, 9th. January, 1762. His father died while he was a young man, and he was left in a part of the country which was held by the rebels, when he attained to a age to be drafted, Thomas DEMPSEY did not like to fight in the rebel ranks, and consequently escaped and joined the Loyalists. Was in the service when New York was evacuated. Married in 1782 to Mary Lawson, whose father, Peter was imprisoned by the rebels, and his property all plundered and confiscated. Came to Canada by way of Oswego, 1788, accompanied by his wife and her parents. Married at Napanee till 1789, when they came to Ameliasburg, and settled on lot 91, which had been purchased from John Finkle. DEMPSEY'S worldly effects then consisted of a cow, which they brought with them, seven bushels of potatoes, and a French crown, and a half acre of wheat which Finkle had sowed. They drew land in Oranah. During the first years they were in great distress. A table spoonful of flour, with milk boiled, or grain shelled by hand, formed their daily meal. Their clothing consisted of blankets obtained of the Indians for the women, and buckskin pants and shirts for the men. DEMPSEY was the second settler in the Township, Weese having settled two years before. Margaret DEMPSEY, born October 24, 1790, was the third child born in the township. (end of quote)

Margaret DEMPSEY was only 1 day old when her mother paddled across the Bay with her when her husband was absent and several Indians had come to their home and threatened her.

In a affidavit signed by James Peack he said he had often heard his father say James Peack of East Jersey and Nicholas Lazier of the same place say they were well acquainted with the father of Thomas DEMPSEY who lived in the Province of East Jersey in the year of 1769. He was a school master and that the said Nicholas Lazier had been to school to the father of the said Thomas DEMPSEY before the said rebellion, and the deponent further saith that he verily believes from what he has heard his father say, that the said Thomas DEMPSEY was born in the Province of East Jersey now one of the States of America, and further this deponent saith not.

1. The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the car was the cold. It was a sharp, biting cold that seemed to penetrate my very bones. I shivered as I walked towards the building, my hands tucked into my pockets. The air was thick with the scent of coal smoke and the distant sound of factory bells.

2. As I entered the large hall, I was struck by the sheer scale of the place. The ceiling was high, with ornate chandeliers hanging from it. The floor was polished and reflected the light. In the center of the room, a large group of people were gathered, some standing in lines, others talking in small groups. I felt a bit out of place, my simple coat and hat contrasting with the formal attire of many of the others.

3. I followed the crowd, my eyes taking in the details of the architecture. The walls were covered in murals depicting various scenes, and the air was filled with the sound of conversation. I noticed a man in a tuxedo standing near the entrance, looking towards the door. He seemed to be waiting for someone. I hesitated for a moment, wondering if I should approach him, but then I shook my head and continued on.

4. The crowd led me to a large, open area where a group of people were standing in a semi-circle. A man in a suit was speaking into a microphone, his voice echoing through the hall. He was gesturing with his hands as he spoke, and the crowd listened intently. I felt a sense of anticipation, wondering what he was saying.

5. The speaker finished his speech, and the crowd erupted in applause. I clapped along with the others, feeling a sense of belonging. The man in the tuxedo stepped forward, and the crowd parted for him. He walked towards the center of the room, and I followed him, my heart pounding in my chest.

6. He stopped in front of a large, ornate table. On the table were several bottles and glasses. He reached for one of the bottles, and the crowd fell silent. He took a drink, and then he spoke again, his voice softer this time. He looked at the crowd, and I felt a sense of connection with him. He was a man of power, but he seemed to be sharing something with us.

7. The crowd began to move, and I followed them. We walked through a series of rooms, each with its own unique character. There were rooms with high ceilings and large windows, and there were rooms with low ceilings and small windows. The architecture was a mix of styles, and I was fascinated by the details.

8. We finally arrived at a large room with a high ceiling. In the center of the room was a large, ornate chandelier. The room was filled with people, and I felt a sense of excitement. I looked around at the people, and I saw a man in a tuxedo standing near the entrance. He was looking towards the door, and I felt a sense of anticipation.

10. The speaker finished his speech, and the crowd erupted in applause. I clapped along with the others, feeling a sense of belonging. The man in the tuxedo stepped forward, and the crowd parted for him. He walked towards the center of the room, and I followed him, my heart pounding in my chest.

"The LOYALIST SETTLEMENT of PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY "

From a paper given by H.C. Burleigh, M.D. Col.- genealogist of Bay of Quinte Branch, United Empire Loyalist Association of Canada.

Napanee March, 2nd. 1966.

In Conclusion, and for the benefit of those persons who are interested in the names of those who settled in Prince Edward County in the summer of 1784, I wish to refer to the typed lists on the walls of our museum at Adolphustown. These are copies of the official lists preserved in the Public Archives in Ottawa. The settlers in Marysburg Township, 59 men, 16 women and 2 children has been discussed earlier in this paper. Three men and one woman are listed for Sophiasburg, but none had yet arrived on October, 13th. of that year. In fact, all three finally settled along the St. Lawrence. Four men and two women, with three children were slated for Township No. 7 (Ameliasburg). Of these, one man by name-LEWIS MOSHER, was on his land. Nathan Brown had gone to Cataraqui. The remaining two never appeared, and all settled elsewhere by 1796. Oliver Sweet, the only man slated for Township No. 8 was absent, and finally settled in Augusta Township. The rest of the County was a forest of trees, and unpopulated as of October 1784.

THE HISTORY OF THE CITY OF BOSTON

From the first settlement of the city in 1630 to the present time. The city of Boston was founded by a group of Puritan settlers who came to the Massachusetts Bay in 1630. They were led by John Winthrop, who gave the city its name. The city grew rapidly and became one of the most important cities in the colonies. It was the site of the Boston Tea Party in 1773 and the Battle of Boston in 1775. The city was the center of the American Revolution and played a key role in the founding of the United States.

The city of Boston has a rich history and has been the site of many important events. It was the first city in the United States to have a public library and the first city to have a public school. It was also the first city to have a public hospital and the first city to have a public park. The city has a long tradition of education and has produced many famous graduates, including John F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr.

The city of Boston is a major center of commerce and industry. It is home to many large corporations and is a major port for the Northeast. The city is also a major center of culture and has many museums, theaters, and concert halls. The city is a beautiful city with many parks and a rich history. It is a city that is proud of its past and looks forward to its future.

The city of Boston is a city of many firsts. It was the first city in the United States to have a public library and the first city to have a public school. It was also the first city to have a public hospital and the first city to have a public park. The city has a long tradition of education and has produced many famous graduates, including John F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr.
